Anutone renews ISO certification

Since 2003 Anutone has been certified for ISO 9001 (process management) and since 2008 for ISO 14001 (environment management). Every year Anutone has not only successfully passed surveillance audits but also every three years undergone re-certification. This uninterrupted record is testimony to ISO being a way of life at Anutone.

In 2014 Anutone made history once again by being the first company in its segment to obtain OHSAS 18001 (occupational health & safety management). And to crown it all in 2015 we not only renewed them all but brought our Tufbloc manufacturing unit under certification too.

What this means to you our dear customers is stability, consistency, reliability. The ability of a company to repeat and reproduce its quality systems while being responsible to the environment and employees. Since 1966, for 50 years now, Anutone continues to embody the noble values of business!
